Q.4

Read the passage and answer questions given below:

(10)

Character is one of the greatest power in the world. Men of genuine excellence in every station of life, men of industry, of integrity, of high principle, of sterling honesty command the homage of mankind. It is natural to believe in such men, to have confidence in them and to imitate them. All that is good in the world is upheld by them and without their presence in it, the world would not be worth living in.

Although genius always commands admiration, character secures respect. The former is more the product of brain power, the latter of heart power. Men of genius stand to society, in relation of its intellect, as men of character of its conscience, and while the former are admired, the latter are followed. Great men are always exceptional men, and greatness itself is best cooperative. Indeed the range of most men in life is so limited that very few have the opportunity of being great. But each man can act his part honestly and honourably and to the best of his ability. He can strive, make the best of life. He can be true, just, honest and faithful even in small things.

Questions:

- i) What is the force of character?
- ii) What sort of men command the homage of mankind?
- iii) What are the qualities of great men?
- iv) What is the influence of character upon the world?
- v) Give a suitable title to the above passage.
