SECTION-I

Q.1 Read the passage and answer the question: (10)

But during these first nineteen months of my life, I had seen something of the broad, green fields, the shining sky, trees and flowers and the darkness that followed could not quite hide them from my memory.

As I got older – I was now nearly six- the desire to express myself grew. The few signs I used became less and less satisfactory to me, and my failure to make myself understood was always followed by outbursts of temper. I felt as if unseen hands were holding me and I tried wildly to escape.

Then she came - my teacher, Ann Sullivan-and she set my spirit free. I am filled with wonder when I consider the difference- that of darkness and light – in my life before and after her coming. It was the 3rd of March, 1887, three months before my seventh birthday.

- We build our houses of brick, stone and wood but in the frozen regions of the far north, houses are often made of ice and snow. The Eskimo cuts the snow into blocks like large bricks and places them one on another, just as we build houses. To make the blocks hold together, half- melted snow is used, as we use lime. With it the people use a piece of clear ice, which they fix in the roof.
- The houses of Eskimos do not have windows as we have. If at all there is one, it is at the top. Instead of a fire, they burn oil lamps. The floor is covered with the skins of animals. The doorway is very small, and a skin is hung over it to keep out the cold wind.
- a) What comparison is bought out between buildings of houses?
 - b) How do the Eskimos build their houses?
 - c) How are windows and other facilities created in the houses?
 - d) Describe a typical house you have seen.
 - e) Write four adjectives used in the passage.
